Donation of Personal Repellents Will Help Protect Against Surge in Mosquito Activity Common After Significant Rain and Flooding

ST. LOUIS, Missouri--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Sep. 9, 2020-- Spectrum Brands Holdings, Inc. (NYSE: SPB; "Spectrum Brands"), a leading global branded consumer products and home essentials company focused on driving innovation and providing exceptional customer service whose Home & Garden subsidiary supplies Cutter® insect repellent products, today announced a donation of more than 19,000 bottles of personal insect repellent to the American Red Cross.

The donation will help restock American Red Cross warehouses with personal insect repellent as the organization provides relief in the aftermath of devastating natural disasters, like Hurricane Laura, which recently caused extensive flooding along the Texas-Louisiana border.

Heavy rain and flooding caused by extreme weather events has the potential to cause mosquito populations to rise, which in turn can increase the rate of mosquito-borne sicknesses in humans and animals.

"When natural disasters hit, families and first responders have so much on their mind that mosquitoes – and the potential diseases they carry – shouldn't be a worry," said Steve Schwallie, Division Vice President of Marketing for Spectrum Brands Home & Garden Division. "We are proud of our ongoing commitment to help protect communities impacted by natural disasters through our growing partnership with the American Red Cross, because we know how important it is to protect yourself and your people from potential mosquito-borne disease."

Spectrum Brands is a proud partner of the American Red Cross as part of the company's ongoing commitment to work with communities in times of need.

"We appreciate the generosity and support from Spectrum Brands, makers of Cutter® insect repellents, and know this donation will be greatly appreciated by our disaster teams and those we help who have been impacted by fires, tornadoes, floods and hurricanes," said Cindy Erickson, CEO for the Missouri-Arkansas Region of the American Red Cross. "The support we receive from our donors makes it possible for us to reach more people who need us."
