"In the one hundred years of our company's existence, Rayovac has evolved from a U.S. based battery manufacturer to a global diversified consumer products company with a robust portfolio of brands across seven product categories," said David Jones, Rayovac's chairman and chief executive officer.

"Our plans are to continue to grow our product portfolio through the inclusion of additional brands in the future. The name 'Spectrum Brands' more clearly describes who we are today, and is indicative of our growth strategy and commitment to new brands going forward."

The company emphasized that its branded products will continue to be marketed to retailers and consumers under their current names, including Rayovac and Varta batteries and lighting products, Remington electric shaving and grooming and personal care products, and the variety of brands recently added to the Rayovac family through its acquisition of United Industries, including Spectracide(R), Vigoro(R), Sta-Green(R), Schultz(TM) and C.I.L.(R) in the lawn and garden market; Hot Shot(R), Cutter(R) and Repel(R) in the household insect control market; and Marineland(R), Perfecto(R) and Eight in One in the pet supplies market.

The proposal to change the corporate name to Spectrum Brands, Inc. will be put before shareholders at the company's annual meeting currently scheduled for late April. Shareholders will be notified of the proposal through the company's proxy statement. Once the name change is effected, Spectrum Brands, Inc. will trade on the NYSE under the symbol "SPC."
